New HR Manager to join Council team

January 8, 2017
COOKTOWN

Long time human resources professional Tracey Boulton will join the Cook Shire Council team in the position of HR Manager next week.

Ms Boulton is a senior human resources professional with more than 10 years' experience within the maintenance and facility management, infrastructure services, power and water and retail industries. Ms Boulton will be moving from Melbourne to join her partner, who has lived in Cooktown for more than a decade. "I've been lucky enough to visit Cooktown with him frequently and thoroughly enjoy the people, the weather and the amazing sites and experiences Cooktown and surrounds has to offer," Ms Boulton said. "It was easy to make the decision that we wanted to settle in Cooktown permanently."

"I am looking forward to meeting the people of Cooktown and the wider community and I hope to make many friends along the way, and through my work provide support in the development and success of Cook Shire Council's staff and the community."
