Student gets taste of library life

July 1, 2019
COOKTOWN

Cooktown teenager Anton Moessner has dipped his toe into a career in local government, following a week's work experience at the Cooktown Library.

Cook Shire Council Librarian Kate Ashton said the 15-year-old was a pleasure to work with. "Anton showed enthusiasm and initiative and was a hit with the customers," Ms Ashton said. "He helped us out with a massive exchange of over 500 items to Public Library Services, inter-library loans, reserves and shelving, and of course customer service – all skills which will help prepare him for the workforce."

Anton said he really enjoyed the experience working for Cook Shire Council, "It was really good, I enjoyed it and learnt a lot about the library system, and the librarians were really good teachers."
